

CHESS COACH READY™

BONUS 5 OF 5

Professional Chess Coach Management Toolkit™

Assessment forms, planning templates, student-tracking systems and tournament checklists, ready for immediate use.

2 PREMIUM BONUS DOCUMENT

COACHING PRACTICE OPERATIONS

25 PROFESSIONAL TEMPLATES

Welcome to Bonus 5

You are an excellent chess coach. You understand the game deeply, you know how to teach it, and your students improve under your guidance. But if your intake process is a handshake and a text message, if your parents receive updates only when they ask, and if your tournament-day prep lives entirely in your head — you are working harder than you need to, and your practice looks less professional than it should.

This bonus exists to close that gap. The Professional Chess Coach Management Toolkit™ is a complete set of client-facing and administrative documents designed specifically for chess coaches running private, group, or school/club programs. Every template here has been built for immediate use — brand it, adapt it to your context, and deploy it from day one.

What This Bonus Solves

Inconsistent Intake

No more starting every new student relationship with a different process. Standardized forms create professionalism from first contact.

Communication Gaps

Parents and guardians want structured updates. These templates make consistent, polished communication effortless.

Tournament Chaos

Tournament day is high-stakes. A coach-specific checklist ensures nothing is forgotten — from equipment to emergency contacts.

No Paper Trail

Invoices, skill assessments, and re-evaluation records give your practice the infrastructure of a trusted professional service.

By the end of this bonus, you will have a complete administrative operating layer for your coaching practice — one that projects competence, builds trust, and frees your mental energy for what matters most: teaching chess.

How to Use This Toolkit

What This Bonus Covers

This toolkit focuses exclusively on the client-facing and administrative side of your coaching practice. It covers intake, assessment, communication, invoicing, checklists, and end-of-season close-out — the documents that govern the relationship between you and your students and their families.

This is distinct from Module 6 (Season Planning & Student Management Toolkit™), which addresses curriculum design and season scheduling. Think of Module 6 as your internal academic calendar — and this bonus as your client-facing professional binder.

How These Fit Together

Use the Initial Skill Assessment Form (Pages 6–7) to feed your placement decisions directly into the level-based frameworks in Modules 1–4. Use the Ongoing Assessment Form (Pages 8–9) to track progress against the season structure you build in Module 6. Every document in this bonus is designed to plug into the broader Chess Coach Ready™ system.

Introducing to New vs. Existing Students

For new students: start with the Intake Form and Welcome Packet before the first lesson. For existing students: introduce the Policies & Expectations template and the Ongoing Assessment Form at the start of a new term — frame it as a professional upgrade, not a disruption.

Each document in this toolkit includes a clear purpose statement and a "when to use it" note. Work through them in sequence for a new student, or jump to the section you need most urgently. Every template is designed to be printed, branded with your name or practice logo, and used immediately.

New Student Intake Form

Purpose

Establishes a complete, organized profile for every new student before the first lesson begins.
Eliminates the awkward first-session information-gathering that slows down actual coaching time.

When to Use

Send this form to the parent or guardian (or directly to an adult student) upon confirming enrollment — before the first lesson. Review it 24 hours before the intake session.

What It Feeds Into

Use the student's stated goals and current level to guide your placement into Modules 1–4. Use the availability section to schedule recurring lessons and flag any tournament commitments already on the calendar.

Initial Skill Assessment Form

Purpose

A structured first-lesson evaluation that gives you an objective snapshot of a new student’s current chess understanding across the four core domains: tactics, openings, endgames, and competitive mindset. Replaces informal impressions with documented, repeatable assessment.

When to Use

Administer during the first dedicated lesson or assessment session — after completing the Intake Form but before committing to a curriculum plan. Results feed directly into your placement decisions within Modules 1–4.

Assessment Philosophy

This is not a test — it is a diagnostic conversation. Use the rating scale as shorthand for your professional judgment, not as a score to share with the student or parent. The goal is to identify both gaps and strengths so the curriculum plan you build is specific, not generic.

Rating Scale: 1 = Not yet introduced 2 = Familiar, inconsistent 3 = Developing 4 = Solid foundation 5 = Advanced for level

Ongoing Assessment & Re-Evaluation Form

Purpose

A periodic check-in instrument used to document student progress between formal curriculum milestones. Captures skill development, goal alignment, and any adjustments needed to the coaching plan — and creates a paper trail that supports conversations with parents about their investment in coaching.

When to Use

Conduct a re-evaluation every 6–8 weeks, or at the start of a new term or competitive season. Use this form alongside (not instead of) the tracking tools in Module 6 — this document is the administrative record of the evaluation, while Module 6 tools manage the curriculum response.

How to Share Results

This form is an internal coaching document — it is not automatically sent to parents. Use the Progress Update Email template (Pages 16–17) to communicate a parent-friendly summary of the key findings. Keep the completed form in the student's file for continuity if you ever need to transition that student to a substitute or co-coach.

Welcome Packet Template

Purpose

Sets the professional tone from day one. A polished Welcome Packet communicates that you run an organized, purposeful program — and it answers the questions every parent will have before they think to ask them.

When to Use

Send digitally or provide in print at or before the first lesson. Pair with the signed Coaching Policies & Expectations document (Pages 12–13) for a complete professional onboarding package.

Customization Notes

Replace all bracketed fields with your practice-specific information. Adjust the materials list to reflect the formats you teach in (in-person vs. online will have different requirements). Keep this document under two pages when printed.

WELCOME PACKET

[Your Name / Practice Name] — Chess Coaching

Welcome to [Practice Name]

Thank you for choosing [Your Name] as your chess coach. This packet gives you everything you need to get started confidently. Please read it carefully, keep it for reference, and reach out with any questions before the first session.

What to Expect from Your Lessons

Structured Curriculum

Every lesson follows a planned arc — warm-up review, new concept introduction, practical application (games/exercises), and a closing debrief. Lessons are never improvised. Your student's placement in the curriculum is based on the Initial Skill Assessment conducted at enrollment.

Homework & Practice

Between sessions, students are expected to complete assigned puzzles or review exercises. The volume of homework is calibrated to the student's level and goals. Consistent practice between lessons is the single greatest multiplier of coaching effectiveness.

Progress Communication

Parents and guardians receive periodic written progress updates (see schedule in Policies document). You are always welcome to ask about your student's development — please use the preferred communication channel listed below rather than messaging during or immediately after sessions.

Materials Needed

Item	Notes
Regulation chess set (board + pieces)	Required for in-person lessons
Chess clock (analog or digital)	Required for competitive-track students
Notation paper / scoresheet pad	Provided or student-supplied — coach will advise
Online platform account (Chess.com or Lichess)	Required for online lessons; coach will send link
Notebook for lesson notes	Recommended for all students

Preferred Communication

Primary contact method	[Email / Phone / Text — specify]
Response time	Within [24 / 48] hours on business days
Best contact hours	[e.g., 9 AM – 6 PM, Monday – Friday]

Coaching Policies & Expectations Template

Purpose

A clearly documented policies agreement is one of the most professionally important documents in your practice. It prevents misunderstandings, reduces no-shows, and establishes the coaching relationship on mutual respect from day one. It is not a legal contract — it is a professional framework that you customize and share as part of onboarding.

When to Use

Distribute alongside the Welcome Packet before or at the first lesson. Ask families to sign and return the acknowledgment section. Keep a copy on file. Review and update at the start of each new season.

☐ This is a customizable template — not legal advice. Have a qualified professional review any binding agreement before using it as a formal contract.

COACHING POLICIES & EXPECTATIONS

[Your Name / Practice Name] — Effective Date: _____

Lesson Scheduling & Cancellation Policy

1 Notice Required Cancellations must be communicated at least [24 / 48] hours before the scheduled lesson start time via [your preferred method]. Late cancellations (less than 24 hours' notice) without an emergency reason are subject to the policy below.	2 Late-Cancel & No-Show Policy Late cancellations forfeit [50% / 100%] of the session fee. No-shows forfeit the full session fee. Exceptions are made at the coach's discretion for genuine emergencies with prompt notification.	3 Coach Cancellations If the coach must cancel, [24 / 48] hours' notice will be given wherever possible. Canceled sessions will be rescheduled at no additional charge within [30] days at a mutually agreeable time.

Payment Due	☒ Per session (at time of lesson) ☒ Monthly invoice ☒ Package upfront
Late Payment	Invoices unpaid after _____ days may result in a pause in scheduling.

Communication Expectations

Between Lessons Brief questions are welcome via [email/text]. Extended chess discussions or curriculum requests should be saved for lesson time or a scheduled check-in call.	During Lessons Parents are welcome to observe quietly when lessons are in-person. Active participation during the lesson by parents is politely discouraged — it shifts the dynamic and reduces the student’s independent thinking.	Progress Updates Written progress summaries are sent [every 6–8 weeks / at end of term]. Parents may request an additional verbal check-in once per term at no extra charge.

Tournament Support Policy

Coaching support at tournaments (on-site presence, pre-round preparation, post-round analysis) is available under a separate tournament-day arrangement. Rates and availability are discussed per event. The coach does not advise students during active games — doing so violates tournament rules and the spirit of competitive development.

Session/Package Invoice & Tracking Template

Purpose

A clean, professional invoice creates a clear financial record for both you and your clients. It eliminates ambiguity about what was delivered, what has been paid, and what remains in a package — reducing billing disputes before they start.

When to Use

Issue an invoice after each completed session (for per-session billing) or at the start of each month (for monthly billing plans). For package clients, use the session tracking section each time a session is consumed to maintain a live package balance.

Record-Keeping Note

Retain copies of all invoices — whether paid by check, digital transfer, or cash — as part of your practice's financial records. This template is a starting point; consult your accountant or a financial professional about the record-keeping practices appropriate for your business structure.

Parent/Guardian Communication Templates

Purpose

Consistent, professional written communication with families is one of the clearest signals that you run a serious coaching program. These templates eliminate the mental overhead of composing updates from scratch and ensure your tone is always calibrated — warm, specific, and credible.

When to Use

Three templates are provided: a Periodic Progress Update (use every 6–8 weeks), a Tournament-Day Update (send same-day to families who are not on-site), and a Season-End Summary (send at the conclusion of each term or competitive season).

Communication Best Practices

- Always lead with something specific the student did well — never open with a criticism.
- Be concrete: cite a specific tactic, game situation, or tournament result rather than vague praise.
- Keep updates to 150–250 words — parents are busy. Longer is not more professional.
- Send updates on a schedule, not only when there's a problem.

Template A: Periodic Progress Update Email

Subject: [Student First Name] — Chess Progress Update, [Month Year]

Dear [Parent/Guardian Name],

I wanted to take a moment to share an update on [Student First Name]'s progress over the past several weeks. This is a regular part of how I communicate with families, and I hope you find it useful.

What [First Name] is working on: [Describe the current curriculum focus — e.g., "We've been working on recognizing tactical patterns involving pins and skewers, and building a more consistent opening setup with the pieces."]

A specific highlight: [One concrete, specific positive observation — e.g., "In last week's session, [First Name] correctly identified a back-rank weakness in a training game and converted it — that's a pattern we've been building toward for three sessions."]

Area to continue developing: [One honest, constructive note — e.g., "Clock management under time pressure is the next area we'll focus on together."]

Practice recommendation: [Specific homework or platform suggestion — e.g., "I've assigned [First Name] 10 puzzles per day on [platform] at the [level] difficulty setting."]

Please don't hesitate to reach out if you have questions. I'm looking forward to continued progress this season.

Best,
[Your Name]

Template B: Tournament-Day Update Message

Subject: [Student First Name] — Update from Today's Tournament

Dear [Parent/Guardian Name],

Here's a brief update from today's event. [Student First Name] competed in [number] rounds at [description of event — e.g., "a local scholastic tournament in the [section] section"].

Results: [e.g., "Final score: 3.5/5. A strong performance with solid victories in rounds 1 and 3 and a hard-fought draw in round 4."]

What stood out: [Specific chess observation — e.g., "The opening preparation we've been working on showed clearly in the early middlegame of at least two games today — pieces were developed efficiently and [First Name] castle on time in each game."]

What to work on next: [Specific coaching note — e.g., "Endgame conversion was the sticking point — we'll address king activation in pawn endings in the next session."]

Competitive composure: [Brief behavioral/mindset note — e.g., "[First Name] handled an upset result in round 2 maturely and refocused effectively for round 3. That kind of resilience is a real asset."]

Full game analysis will be part of the next lesson. Well done today, [First Name].

Best,
[Your Name]

Template C: Season-End Summary Message

Subject: [Student First Name] — End-of-Season Coaching Summary

Dear [Parent/Guardian Name],

As the [season/term] comes to a close, I want to share a brief summary of where [First Name] started, how far they've come, and what I'm looking forward to building in the next season.

Where we started: [Describe the student's level at the beginning of the term — e.g., "At the beginning of the fall term, [First Name] had a solid grasp of piece movements but struggled with positional plans and endgame fundamentals."]

Key growth areas: [Two or three specific improvements — e.g., "This season, [First Name] made notable strides in tactical pattern recognition, particularly forks and back-rank threats, and developed a reliable opening setup with both colors."]

Tournament highlights (if applicable): [Brief summary of competitive results.]

Goals for next season: [Two or three specific priorities for the upcoming term.]

It has been a pleasure coaching [First Name] this season. I'm proud of the work they've put in and excited about what's ahead.

Best,
[Your Name]

Coach's Tournament-Day Checklist

Purpose

This checklist covers everything the coach personally needs to prepare, bring, and execute on tournament day. It is distinct from student-facing tournament preparation tools (covered in Bonus 1) — this is your operational command checklist as the coach managing multiple students across a competitive event.

When to Use

Begin the evening before with the Pre-Tournament section. Complete the morning-of section before departure. Use the during-event and post-event sections as the day unfolds. Archive completed checklists — patterns across events reveal systemic gaps in your tournament preparation.

New Student Onboarding Checklist

Purpose

A step-by-step process that ensures every new student receives the same professional, complete onboarding experience — from first contact to first lesson. Inconsistent onboarding is one of the most common sources of early dropout and parent dissatisfaction in coaching practices. This checklist closes that gap systematically.

When to Use

Begin this checklist the moment a prospective student or family makes their first inquiry. Work through it sequentially. The entire onboarding process should be complete before or by the end of the first formal lesson. Archive the completed checklist in the student’s file.

- ☐ Onboarding is not just paperwork — it is relationship-building. The care and professionalism you demonstrate in these first weeks directly shapes how much trust parents and students place in your coaching program long-term.

End-of-Term / Season Wrap-Up Checklist

Purpose

A structured close-out process at the end of each coaching term or competitive season. The end of a season is the most operationally intense administrative moment of your coaching year — this checklist ensures nothing falls through the cracks, from billing resolution to student retention planning.

When to Use

Begin two weeks before the formal end of your season. Complete all items within one week of the last session of the term. The administrative close-out is as important as the academic one — a clean end of term sets up a smooth start to the next.

Why This Matters

Coaches who fail to formalize end-of-term processes lose students to attrition not from dissatisfaction, but from inertia. A deliberate close-out — including a summary message, a retention conversation, and a re-enrollment step — is one of the highest-leverage administrative actions in your practice.

END-OF-TERM WRAP-UP CHECKLIST

STUDENT ADMINISTRATION

- ☐ Complete an Ongoing Assessment & Re-Evaluation Form for every active student
- ☐ Send Season-End Summary message to all families (use Template C, Page 17)
- ☐ Update each student file with final-term notes and any curriculum adjustments for next term
- ☐ Archive all completed scoresheets, game records, and tournament results
- ☐ Flag any students with unresolved curriculum questions for priority attention next term

BILLING & FINANCIAL CLOSE-OUT

- ☐ Issue final invoices for any outstanding balances — set a clear due date
- ☐ Reconcile all package balances: note remaining sessions and any expirations
- ☐ Follow up on any unpaid invoices before the new season begins
- ☐ Update rate sheet for the next season (if rates are changing) and draft client communication
- ☐ Confirm payment method on file is current for all continuing students

STUDENT RETENTION & NEXT SEASON

- ☐ Contact all active students with a re-enrollment invitation at least 2 weeks before next term starts
- ☐ Flag any students who appear at risk of not returning — schedule a brief check-in conversation
- ☐ Set availability for next term and communicate any schedule changes to families
- ☐ Update your scheduling system with confirmed bookings for the next season

COACH SELF-REVIEW

- ☐ Review the season: what worked well in your curriculum and communication?
- ☐ Note any documents in this toolkit that need updating before next term
- ☐ Review tournament-day notes for systemic improvements to next season's event preparation
- ☐ Set 2–3 professional development goals for the upcoming term

Customization Notes for This Cover Page

- Add Your Logo

Place your practice logo above the practice name. Keep it simple — a clean graphic mark or initials-based logo reads more professionally than a complex image at cover-page scale.
- Consistent Typography

Use a single serif font for the practice name and document title, and a clean sans-serif for all other fields. Avoid mixing more than two font families on a single cover.
- Brand Color Application

Apply your primary brand color to the practice name, the document title, or a horizontal rule beneath the header. One color accent is sufficient — more creates visual clutter.

This template is intended for individual professional use. Customize it freely to match your practice identity. For clients with multiple documents, use a consistent cover format across all materials to reinforce a unified, professional brand.

Bonus 5 — This Document
The client-facing and administrative layer — every document needed to run the professional, operational side of your coaching practice.

A Closing Note

The strongest chess coaches are not simply strong chess players with good teaching instincts. They are professionals — people who show up prepared, communicate with clarity, honor their commitments, and run their practices with the same care they bring to the board. The documents in this bonus are one expression of that professionalism. They signal to every parent, every student, and every institution you work with that you take coaching seriously.

A student who receives a polished welcome packet, clear policies, and regular progress updates does not just feel more organized — they feel more invested. Parents who receive structured, specific communication trust the coaching process more deeply and stay longer. Professionalism is not separate from great coaching — it is part of it.

You now have the complete system. Use it with confidence.
